an early 'scenic visualization' website where a recognizable overview of an organization presents an inviting face to virtual visitors along with direct access to their destination

it treats the Web more as a pictorial medium with ample, dispersed, co-located text annotations than a columnar-text medium with illustrations

